

THE LAST WORD

Want to look hot this summer? Here's all you'll need to shine like the sun—from expert makeup tips and invigorating bath products to a flirty floral scent

A clean sweep

All it takes is one stroke of Max Factor's Shadow Sweep on each lid—using the specially designed brush—to give your eyes color and contour without blending. At drugstores.

The new face

"For summer makeup, the emphasis is on creating a clean, crisp look," says makeup artist Jennifer Martin for Maybelline Shades of You. "We're moving away from the drastic '60s heavy-liner look and back to softly defined frosts in neutral shades. Plus, brows are more groomed than before—well-shaped and darkened with a pencil." The latest lipsticks: "Pinks and corals to complement bright shades in clothes," says Jennifer. With these guidelines in mind, our editors picked some of the best cosmetic colors of the season: ■ Chanel Dual Eye Shadow in Pale Sable/Amber. ■ Max Factor Suntouched Blush in Very Mango. ■ Maybelline Revitalizing Color Lipstick in Flipped Over Orange.

the new case for makeup? These quilted cosmetic bags in juicy hues, free from Benetton. To get yours, just buy fifteen dollars' worth of Beauté Benetton cosmetics. Inside the Tutti Frutti makeup bag, you'll get a fragrance vial of Colors de Benetton for Women and a sample of Benetton's new foundation. This definitely proves it . . . the best things in life are free.

Bathing bella

To launch Lancôme's new Trésor bath collection, a group of representatives from the cosmetic company gave beauty editors relaxing hand massages using their Perfumed Body Creme. It was so luxurious that even Lancôme's spokesperson, actress Isabella Rossellini (left), asked for one of these moisturizing massages. The collection, including soap, gel, and lotion, is at department stores.

everybody

loves a mystery—especially when it's as alluring as

Cover Girl's new light floral-oriental fragrance, Incognito.

Available at drugstores.

